

The Super Patch Company -Noelle Quinn

My experience using the Super Patch:

When I was introduced to the Super Patch, I decided it was worth a try.

I chose to try Freedom (for pain) and Peace (for Afib). I wore the Peace Patch for 6 weeks continuously. My Afib would normally happen roughly every 6 weeks and would last for 12 hours. The first time I had Afib having worn the patches continuously the Afib episode lasted 2 hours. Great result. I then decided to only wear the patch if I was going to enjoy a drink (I had identified alcohol as a possible trigger). So, 6 weeks later I got an Afib attack – I was wearing the Peace patch and was attending a family weekend event. It happened after 2 days of just a few glasses of wine and lasted 6 hours. It was still easier than prior to wearing the patch. I plan to continue using the Peace Patch for Afib. (Alternatively, I could give up the pleasure of an occasional glass of wine/gin and tonic).

I have used the Freedom Patch more frequently and I do believe that it helps with painful knee and legs. Again, I don't wear the patch continuously but when I feel the need. I have tried other patches i.e. Defend and Victory but cannot speak with any real conviction about the effect of these.

My husband Tommy has always had a habit of clearing his throat and having a slight cough to do so, for as long as I have known him. He wore Freedom (pain), Victory (movement) and Defend (immune). He was wearing them for the relief of pain associated with gout, knee pain and leg pain. After wearing the patches continuously for a few weeks someone pointed out to him that he had stopped clearing his throat. He had. It was amazing. He didn't continue with the patches, and he has reverted to having to clear his throat.

We have not experienced any (other) negative side effects from using the patches.

All information on how the patches work can be found online under The Super Patch Company. The patches are designed with precision, featuring ultra fine ridges that stimulate receptors in your skin. The unique ridge patterns (like a thumb print) are tailored to reboot specific neural programs. The patches are made using vibrotactile technology and are 100% drug and ingredient free. I know there are at least 2 BTTI members signed up to Super Patch myself Noelle Quinn and Eileen Kelly. A pack of 28 patches cost €55 approx. and each patch is worn for 24 hours. If anyone is interested in experimenting/purchasing these patches they are available online thru the website “The Super Patch Company”. thru the use of an Associate ID Number or by signing up as an Associate yourself (which costs 65 euro) and which will carry a reduction in the cost of the patches. For further information on any of the above please feel to give any of us a call. You can also read various reviews and testimonials online.
